Re: Harbor Island Superfund Site, Seattle, Washington

Dear Sir or Madam:

In 1986, the United States Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) sent past and present landowners and operators on Harbor Island a letter informing them of Harbor Island's status as a Superfund Site under the Comprehensive Environmental Response, Compensation, and Liability Act of 1980 (CERCLA), 42 U.S.C. Section 9601 et seq. EPA also sent these same landowners and operators a Section 104(e) letter requesting information regarding their activities on Harbor Island, particularly as they relate to the generation, transportation, storage, treatment or disposal of hazardous substances. The responses EPA received were evaluated. Based on these responses, it was clear that some entities, due to the nature of the activities they conducted or permitted to be conducted at the site, did not contribute to the contamination at the site.

EPA is sending those parties a letter apprising them that they are being removed from the list of potentially responsible parties for this site. We have cautioned those parties, however, that if new information comes to our attention, the determination to remove them from potentially responsible party consideration would be reevaluated and changed. The letter and a list of the parties to whom it is being sent is enclosed. Their inclusion on this list is based on the information provided to EPA as a result of the 104(e) information request, as well as other information gathered by EPA. Should you wish to submit information, in addition to that which you submitted in response to EPA's Section 104(e) request, about you or your company's activities on Harbor Island, please contact Christine Psyk at the following address: U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, Superfund Program, HW-113, 1200 6th Avenue, Seattle, WA 98101.

Sincerely,

for Charles E. Findley, Director
Hazardous Waste Division
